Report of Director and School Improvement Council

The Beaufort-Jasper Academy for Career Excellence (ACE) strives to prepare students for college and provide high-level technical training for students in grades 9-12. The faculty embraces a model that infuses reading, writing, math, and essential skills throughout the curriculum. ACE has received the Palmetto Gold Award for two consecutive years and a Palmetto Silver Award in 2004.

ACE offers 16 technical programs in seven national clusters. Students choose to attend full-time or part-time. On the tenth day of the 2007-2008 school year, the school enrolled the equivalent of 579 full-time students. To date, 91 students completed the requirements to earn a certificate of technical competence to augment their high school diploma.

Students are encouraged to participate in professional development through co-curricular leadership activities with national student organizations such as SkillsUSA, Future Farmers of America, Health Occupations Students Association, and American Welding Society. With 112 partners from business, industry, and the military, there is ample opportunity for students to complete a work-based learning experience or community service.

Current accountability data indicates that 69% of 10th grade students passed the High School Assessment Program exams on the first attempt in April of 2007. A longitudinal view of accountability test data reveals that 98% of seniors who attend ACE full-time passed the HSAP before graduation. A senior capstone project is expected of all students who complete a technical program. The project incorporates a research paper, a product, and an oral presentation judged by a panel of business and industry partners. Twenty seniors from ACE were inducted into the National Technical Honor Society in 2008.

ACE has met or exceeded three of four Carl Perkins Standards. Perkins Standard 5, Participation Non-traditional for Gender, was not met by ACE. ACE placed 98% of seniors who completed a technical program in a related job, college, or the military.
